Brief

Sichuan, the Land of Abundance, boasts a rich and long-standing Bashu culture. The Sichuan Provincial People's Government reports that Sichuan Opera's face-changing and fire-breathing skills are breathtaking, while Shu embroidery and Shu brocade are exquisite crafts. Its cuisine is renowned for its spicy and flavorful dishes; hot pot bubbles in the streets, and Mapo Tofu and Sliced Beef and Offal in Chili Sauce showcase the finesse of Sichuan cuisine. Teahouses are ubiquitous, where people enjoy covered-bowl tea and lively conversation, creating a tranquil and leisurely atmosphere. The optimistic and open-minded people of Sichuan have nurtured a diverse, vibrant, and inclusive culture amidst its mountains and rivers.

Why Go Here

- Spicy and flavorful cuisine
- Peaceful and leisurely life
- Bashan and Shushui

Recommended play time: 6-9 days

Opening Hours

06:00-17:00 (January 1st - December 31st, Monday-Sunday)

Transportation

- Public Transportation

Leshan does not have an airport. To reach Leshan by air, you can first fly to Chengdu Shuangliu International Airport. From there, take a high-speed train or a long-distance bus to Leshan and the Emei Mountain Scenic Area.

- Transportation within the Scenic Area

Located near the Golden Summit, the summit can be reached by taking the cable car from the Jieyin Hall or on foot. It's approximately 6 kilometers from the Jieyin Hall to the Golden Summit.

Travel Season

◎ Mount Emei has beautiful scenery in each of the four seasons, with spring and autumn being the best times to visit.

③ Leshan Giant Buddha 乐山大佛

The Leshan Giant Buddha, located at the confluence of three rivers in Leshan, is a seated Maitreya Buddha statue from the Tang Dynasty and a World Heritage Site. It took 90 years to build and is officially named the Lingyun Temple Giant Maitreya Stone Statue of Jiaozhou. Nearby attractions include Lingyun Temple and the Leshan Sleeping Buddha, which can be visited on foot or by boat. There are also legends surrounding its construction, with the closed-eye phenomenon attributed to acid rain.

Transportation

● Public Transportation

Take bus routes 601, K1, 302, or 3 and get off at the Leshan Giant Buddha stop.

● By Boat:

① Take a ferry from Leshan Port to the Giant Buddha.

② Take a cruise ship from the pier within the scenic area to view the Leshan Giant Buddha. The tour lasts approximately 15 minutes. Since there is no pier, the boat will not dock; tourists can only admire the Leshan Giant Buddha from the boat.

Travel Season

☉ Spring and autumn are the best seasons to visit Leshan.

④ Dujiangyan Scenic Area 都江堰景区

Dujiangyan Scenic Area is located on the Minjiang River west of Dujiangyan City. Built by Li Bing and his son in 256 BC, it is one of the best-preserved ancient water conservancy projects in my country. The project consists of three main parts and auxiliary projects, dividing the Minjiang River into the outer river and the inner river. It has created the "Land of Abundance" through flood control and irrigation. The scenic area boasts beautiful scenery and a rich cultural heritage.

Address

Park Road, Dujiangyan City, Chengdu
成都市都江堰市公园路

Recommended play time: 4-5 hours

Opening Hours

Officially reopening on March 8th: 08:00-17:00

Transportation

- By Taxi: The starting fare for taxis in Dujiangyan city is 5 yuan per kilometer. Most attractions within Dujiangyan city are close together, and fares are generally under 12 yuan.
- By Car: From Chengdu, take the Chengguan Expressway to Dujiangyan City, which takes approximately 30 minutes.

Travel Season

☉ Dujiangyan is a true "summer resort" in the summer.

📍 Qingcheng Mountain

青城山

Mount Qingcheng, renowned as "the most secluded place under heaven," is divided into the front and back mountains. The front mountain is the main part, concentrated with Taoist culture and historical sites, including Lao Jun Pavilion and Tianshi Cave; the back mountain is famous for its natural scenery, with numerous pools and waterfalls, and attractions such as the ancient town of Tai'an. A half-day visit is sufficient. There are food stalls in the mountains, and overnight stays are also available to watch the sunrise.

Eating

Sichuan cuisine carries the culinary heritage of the Bashu region for thousands of years. As one of China's four major cuisines, Sichuan cuisine is renowned for its "hundred dishes, a hundred flavors, and a unique style for each dish," centering on spicy, fragrant, and savory flavors. It skillfully utilizes three types of peppers and three types of aromatic spices, resulting in rich and varied taste profiles. From the fiery and bubbling Sichuan hot pot, the tender and spicy Mapo tofu, and the rich yet not greasy twice-cooked pork, to street snacks like Long Chaoshou (wonton soup), Dandan noodles, Bobo chicken, and ice jelly, every dish embodies the vibrant atmosphere and down-to-earth charm of the Land of Abundance. The spiciness is exhilarating, the aroma is rich and profound, making you instantly captivated and allowing you to fully appreciate the lively and unique flavors of Sichuan cuisine.

◆ Sichuan Hot Pot 四川火锅

A representative dish of the Sichuan and Chongqing regions, featuring a spicy and flavorful hot pot broth made with beef tallow, offering a rich variety of ingredients and a lively dining experience.

◆ Mapo Tofu 麻婆豆腐

Mapo Tofu is a classic Sichuan dish, made primarily with soft tofu and seasoned with a spicy and numbing sauce. It boasts a combination of numbing, spicy, hot, fragrant, crispy, and tender textures, with a smooth and flavorful taste. It is a highly representative and popular Sichuan dish that pairs perfectly with rice.

◆ Twice-Cooked Pork 回锅肉

Twice-cooked pork is a classic Sichuan dish. It uses pork belly with a good balance of lean and fatty meat, which is boiled, sliced, and then stir-fried with broad bean paste and garlic sprouts. The result is a savory, slightly spicy dish that is rich but not greasy, and a highly representative and popular home-style dish in the Sichuan and Chongqing regions.

◆ Kung Pao Chicken 宫保鸡丁

Kung Pao Chicken is a classic Sichuan dish renowned both in China and internationally. A traditional Chinese delicacy, it features tender chicken cubes as the main ingredient, stir-fried with peanuts, dried chili peppers, and other ingredients. It boasts a spicy and slightly sweet flavor, with tender chicken and crispy peanuts.

◆ Husband and Wife Lung Slices 夫妻肺片

Husband and Wife Lung Slices is a classic Sichuan-style cold dish, made with braised and sliced beef head skin, heart, and tongue, drizzled with a special chili oil sauce. It's known for its spicy, savory, and refreshing flavor and crispy texture, making it a popular appetizer and accompaniment to drinks.

◆ Dandan Noodles 担担面

Dandan noodles are a classic traditional snack from Sichuan province. They get their name from the fact that they were traditionally sold by vendors carrying them on shoulder poles. The noodles are thin, springy, and chewy, and are served with minced meat, preserved vegetables, and a spicy and flavorful sauce, resulting in a rich and delicious taste.

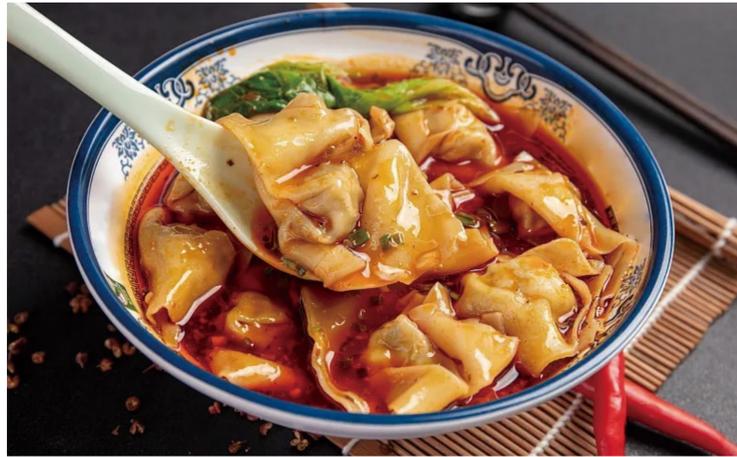

◆ Zhong's Dumplings 钟水饺

Zhong's dumplings are a classic Sichuan specialty snack, made with pure pork filling, thin wrappers, and a tender filling. They are served with a secret recipe chili oil sauce, offering a savory and slightly spicy flavor with a rich taste.

◆ Long Chaoshou 龙抄手

Long Chaoshou is a classic and famous snack from Chengdu, Sichuan. It is characterized by its thin wrappers, tender filling, and smooth, chewy texture. The broth is flavorful and can be served with either chili oil or clear soup, making it a highly representative traditional Sichuan snack.

◆ Chuanbei Liangfen 川北凉粉

Chuanbei Liangfen is a highly representative traditional snack from Sichuan province. Made from refined pea starch, it has a smooth and springy texture and is served with a special blend of seasonings including chili oil and garlic sauce, resulting in a spicy, savory, and aromatic flavor.
